SHELTON STATE GOLF COACH RETIRES

Shelton State golf coach Gene Williams has announced his immediate retirement, according to Tom Umphrey, Shelton president. Williams was honored by the college with a retirement luncheon at noon last Thursday, August 5, at the Tuscaloosa Country Club.

Williams helped established the college's golf program in 1989 and has served as coach since that time. He served as the golf professional for four country clubs through the years, including Lexington Country Club, Lexington, Mississippi, Laurel Country Club, Laurel, Mississippi, Oakbourne Country Club, Lafayette, Louisiana, Meadowbrook Golf Club and Mimosa Country Club and Mimosa Country Club, Tuscaloosa. During this time, the State Amateur Golf Champions from Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama emerged from the junior programs initiated at these clubs. He was also the Mississippi State University Open Champion in 1954 and toured professionally in 1959-1960. Williams has been a member of Class A Professional Golfers' Association of American since 1957. From 1962-67, he chaired the Junior Golf Committee, Alabama Chapter PGA and was president of the Alabama Chapter of PGA in 1968-69. From 1970-73, he served as the honorary past president and member of the Executive Committee, Alabama Chapter, PGA.

Williams also initiated the annual statewide Pro-Junior Golf Tournament and was secretary-treasurer of the Dixie Section, PGA, 19970-74. He also served as a delegate to the National PGA meeting in 1967, 1968, 1969, 1970 and 1978. Williams is a graduate of the University of Alabama. He and his wife, Virginia, have two sons and are active members of Covenant Presbyterian Church.

MINORITY/SMALL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT FORUM HELD ON FREDD CAMPUS

SHELTON STATE TO FORM NEW JAZZ/PEP BAND

Alan Blackshear has been named the director of a new jazz/pep band for Shelton State Community College, according to Syble Coats, chairman of the college's department of music.

The jazz/pep band will perform at home basketball games and will give traditional concerts in coordination with other musical ensembles at the college. The band will be built along the lines of the traditional "Big Band" ensembles of the 30's and 40's. This will include a line of saxophones, trumpets, and trombones and a rhythm section consisting of drums, guitar and bass guitar, and piano. The band may also use a singer during concert performances. The jazz/pep band will be in addition to the Shelton State Brass Ensemble which is directed by Stewart Hampton. A jazz/pep band will give students the opportunity to participate in an ensemble that otherwise might not be available to them, as well as filling the need for entertainment and support at home basketball games, according to Coats.

Dr. Blackshear comes to Shelton from Bevill State Community College in Fayette where he was director of Bevill State Concert and Jazz Bands and the Bevill Singers. From 1985-1990, Dr. Blackshear taught at Shelton State as an adjunct music instructor.

The jazz/pep band is scheduled to meet on Mondays and Wednesdays this fall from 3:30-4:45 p.m. in the music room 306. The course listings for the band are MUE 130--Pep Band and MUE 131--Jazz Band. A limited number of scholarships will be available for the jazz/pep band. An audition is required for students to be placed in the band and on scholarship. Auditions are scheduled for August 23, 24 and 25 at 1 p.m. in the music room 306 on Skyland Campus. For additional information or a special audition time, contact Dr. Blackshear, 391-2344 or 339-3461.

SHELTON STATE WILL OFFER FIVE NEW INSTRUCTIONAL PROGRAMS THIS FALL PLUS FOUR NEW BUSINESS CLASSES

Five new instructional programs and four new business classes will be offered at Shelton State this fall. Two of the new programs, Commercial Art and Turf and Landscape Management, will be taught on the C. A. Fredd Campus. Commercial Art is a certificate program and offers classes in advertising and design along with commercial photography. The program will allow students to use their creative talents and at the same time, learn the skills needed for a new career.

The Turf and Landscape Management program is also a certificate program that can be completed in two semesters and one summer term and will consist of two twenty-five hour programs. For information on this program, call 758-3361.

Travel and Tourism management, one of the fastest growing and changing career fields, is another program that will be offered at Shelton this fall. It is designed for students who have an interest in the travel industry or a related field. The 25 -semester hour program offers a curriculum that prepares students for entry level positions in the industry. A practicum (on-site training) is required. For information on Travel and Tourism Management, call the Counseling Center, 391-2232.

This fall Shelton will offer the beginning of a Paralegal Studies program. An Introduction to Paralegal Studies (GL 100) and Fundamentals of Legal Terminology and Communication (PGL 101) will be taught on the Skyland Boulevard Campus. Paralegal Studies Certificate students complete all 20 course hours of the general education and required paralegal courses and five hours of paralegal electives.

A program unique to two year colleges in the state is one on historic preservation that will be offered at Shelton State this fall. Three academic courses in historic preservation will be offered this fall. Preservation Law, Zoning and Taxes will be taught by local attorney Katie Ferguson. Preservationist Jeff Mansell will teach History and Theory of preservation. A course in Archaeology will also be taught by Dr. Bruce Bizzoco. In addition, some of Shelton State's technical programs will focus a segment of their curriculum toward students in the preservation program. Cabinet Making (carpentry), electricity, and masonry will also offer specific training for people interested in learning to work on old properties. For more information on the historical preservation program, contact Katherine Alexander, 391-2389.

Four new business classes will also be offered this fall at Shelton State. Elements of Supervision, Personal Finance, Salesmanship, and Management Workshop -Total Quality Management will be offered on the Skyland Campus.

Elements of Supervision is offered on Tuesday evenings and is a basic class for first level supervision or managers. Personal Finance enables students to better handle their personal finances and investments. Salesmanship will also be offered on Tuesday evenings from 5:30-8 p.m. and offers students a down-to-earth approach on how to reach their sales potential. Management Workshop-Total Quality Management offers practical information for those who sincerely want to improve the quality of their organizations. It is offered on Thursday evenings from 5:30-8 p.m. For additional information on the business courses, call Judy Austin at Shelton, 391-2263.

Registration for all classes at Shelton State Community College is scheduled for August 23-24. For more information on the class schedule and registration, contact the counseling center, 391-2371, or 391-2232.
